Isles is Participating in the Give for Youth Challenge and We Need Your Vote!

Trenton, N.J. – Isles has entered a microproject in the Give for Youth Challenge and we need your vote! The top 20 youth-focused nonprofits with the most votes win a spot on GiveforYouth.org, a microgiving portal that helps nonprofits get new projects funded and off the ground. Give for Youth is a Microsoft YouthSpark program in partnership with GlobalGiving.

Our project focuses on the Isles YouthBuild Institute, which provides the tools for self-reliance in a non-traditional educational environment and better prepares at-risk youth for employment and higher education. Voting is open until March 1st!

Visit our project page here: <http://giveforyouth.maker.good.is/projects/IslesYouthBuild> and click “Vote for this Idea” to vote for us! After you vote, leave a comment in the discussion section at the bottom of the project page to help get the word out!

If you need to register, please remember to validate your email address (you’ll receive instructions after you vote) so your vote gets counted. You’ll see a notification at the top of the screen once your vote has been successfully counted. Remember, everyone can only vote once, so be sure to also let your friends know and spread the word!

Please take a second to help us out with your vote, and if you’re feeling extra helpful, share this message with your friends and post it on Facebook! Thank you for supporting this important work - We need all the votes we can get!
