MYLO MECHANICAL SUPPORTS ISLES INC. FOR HARVEST CELEBRATION

Donation for exclusive titular sponsorship in support of Isles' 2020 year-end fundraiser, the Harvest Celebration.

TRENTON, NJ — Nov. 18, 2020 – Mylo Mechanical LLC. of Washington's Crossing, Pennsylvania has donated to Isles, Inc., to serve as the exclusive presenting sponsor for its 2020 year-end fundraiser, the Harvest Celebration. The Harvest Celebration was broadcast virtually on November 14, 2020 to Isles supporters, and included updates on Isles' services throughout the year, as well as a roundtable discussion between CEO Sean Jackson, founder Marty Johnson, and COO John Hart, led by Isles' trustee, Rukiya Blackwell, Esquire.

Founded in 1981, Isles, Inc. is a community development and environmental organization based in Trenton, New Jersey with a mission to foster self-reliant families and healthy, sustainable communities.

Corporate funding like Mylo's supports Isles' ability to respond quickly to community needs, which was more important than ever in 2020. After the pandemic hit, Isles distributed 6,000 face masks to residents, local small businesses, and nonprofits (1,250 sewed by Isles staff), delivered of 165 pantry bags from local food banks and 326 hot meals to families, 56 healthy home cleaning kits, 200 do-it-yourself garden grow kits and over 50 cases of fresh produce to Trenton's most at-risk populations.

Mylo Mechanical and Isles' relationship began with the renovation of the Social Profit Center at Mill One, a 60,000 square foot environmentally sustainable facility of flexible office space, and home to a collaborative community of nonprofits, social impact organizations, and artists. For Mylo Mechanical's President and founder, Mylo Bartosz, refurbishing the building was a collaborative and artistic endeavor in and of itself. "I passed Mill One every day on my way to school, and again when commuting to my first job. I always hoped to see it come to life again. Working on the project was a real labor of love."

Mylo's passion for the project and unique skills did not go unnoticed. Isles CEO Sean Jackson says, "With Mylo's creative problem solving, we were able to relocate HVAC equipment away from major windows and historic timber framing, to maximize natural light in the building, and preserve the massive historic timber framing of the original building."

Space in the Social Profit Center at Mill One is currently available for lease. Visit socialprofitcenter.org or email lease@socialprofitcenter.org for more information.
